NUMBER 47

The Supreme Court refuses the application for habeas corpus in Sergeant Mason's case. His case will now depend entirely upon the President.

In one day they realized $7,000 from the sale of season tickets for the May Festival in Chicago. The total sale of tickets of all kinds will reach between $40,000 and $50,000.

It was quite characteristic of ex-Vice President Wheeler to send $1,000 to the Methodist church extension society, telling them to go to the frontier and build up churches, and that "when they get the country well underbrushed, we will send out some Presbyterians to put on the finishing touches."

A report comes from New York that Mrs. William H. Vanderbilt has secured the former cook of the Baroness de Rothschild, at a salary of $7,000 per annum. There are many private families in New York who pay their cooks $1,000 a year, and some of them much greater salaries than that.

There was a good deal of excitement in the House of Commons on Monday, growing out of the assassinations in Ireland. Mr. Gladstone, who is so closely identified with the government policy in Ireland, was much embarrassed, and he said he would ask leave of the House on Thursday next to introduce a measure for the repression of crime in Ireland. While he is about it, wouldn't it be well to introduce a measure for the repression of oppression in Ireland?

Danemg, to pay part of the cost of the Garfield Memorial Hospital, strikes one as being out of time, and strangely ridiculous. The Muse of the Chicago Tribune makes a contrast in this fashion: "A reception and dance for the benefit of the Garfield Memorial Hospital fund was held in the rotunda of the capitol at Washington Saturday night. Next to the horse race which took place at Oshkosh a few years ago for the benefit of the Foreign Missionary Society, his takes the cake."

It has been suggested that there have been already enough lives lost in the attempt to find the North Pole. The deaths of Sir John Franklin and his crew do not seem to have slackened the zeal of men ambitious to gain fame in search of the Northwest passage. The sufferings and deaths resulting from these expeditions have been frightful, and yet every year they are being repeated with no hope of success. It is about time, judging from the sad experience of the past, for the government to stop ordering men to confront death by starvation and cold in the North region.

It is just as bad as it looks, and if anything a little worse. The saying of Congressman Hewitt, of New York, that the Democratic party "is going to h—l again" is doubtless true because Mr. Hewitt has been in that party all his life. He may have described the condition of the Democratic party in more eloquent language, but he could not have done it more forcibly. What Mr. Hewitt predicts will come to pass, in a political sense of that term. The party is trying to build itself up on cheap labor which means the oppression of the laboring classes of this country, and this can never be done.

The latest from Racine in regard to the fire is a special to the Milwaukee Sentinel as follows: "Up to the present time the actual loss is estimated at $700,000, with about $250,000 insurance, but it would have reached $2,000,000 had it not been for the Milwaukee fire department. That the Milwaukee department saved the central part of the city from total destruction is true in every sense of the word, and the citizens of Racine cannot speak in terms of praise high enough. Reports in Chicago papers that the department from that city stayed the fire are false, and they are condemned."

A late dispatch from Washington credits Charles H. Reed, attorney for Guiteau, with devoting himself very assiduously to the preparation of his argument to be delivered before the court in banc which takes place to-day. "He expresses confidence in the result and unhesitatingly says that the best legal talent of Washington with whom he has consulted agree with him in the opinion that the court will set aside the verdict and give the murderer a new trial." It would not be strange considering the looseness of our criminal law practice, if Guiteau should be granted a new trial and finally acquitted on the ground of insanity. It would be a good thing for the country and respect due to justice, if something of the spirit which hanged Dr. Lamson, could have the dispatching of Guiteau.

The reception given to Governor Rusk at Washington by the Wisconsin people of that city, was largely attended. A dispatch from Washington to the Milwaukee Republican says: "There was a large attendance, to-night, of Wisconsin ladies and gentlemen at the reception tendered to Governor Rusk by the Wisconsin Republican Association and held in the Ebbitt House. Senators Sawyer and Cameron, Governor Pound, Judge Humphrey, General Bragg and others of the delegation were present. The Governor left, to-night, at 10 o'clock for St. Louis, to attend the reunion of the Army of the Tennessee on the 10th and 11th. General Bragg will leave for Wisconsin to-morrow night, to attend court at Janesville, and will deliver the oration at West Bend on Decoration day."

JENNIE CRAMER.

NEW YORK, May 8.—The Herald special from New Haven, Conn., says: "Intense interest is felt in the resumption of the Malley-Douglass trial for the murder of Jennie Cramer, which takes place to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock. It is clear that the defense feel a certain solidity of ground slipping from beneath their feet, and in ways clear enough to the close observer are endeavoring to recall to the public mind matters which the exciting incidents of the past three weeks have overshadowed. The marriage of James Malley with Jennie Cramer would have been in no sense a lowering of the man, a very important feature in the case when search is made for a motive to murder. An effort will be made to show that she was not a virtuous girl, and that, in a strictly legal sense, the Malleys were not the cause of her ruin. It appears that Jennie was at one time engaged to marry a young German barber. This afternoon, Mrs. Cramer, Jennie's widowed mother, was asked if it were so, and, if so, why the engagement was broken off, as it has been said the barber took offense at Jennie's going to New York on one occasion and remaining there several days."

SIGNED BY THE PRESIDENT.

WASHINGTON, May 8.—The President has signed the Chinese emigration bill, and it will be sent to Congress probably to-morrow duly approved. It does not meet all the objections urged against the one which was vetoed, but the important modification of time from twenty to ten years is material, and the opinion of Congress was so decidedly expressed in its favor, that the President thought best to give the measure his approval.

It works wonders upon the Digestive apparatus. ZOPESA, from Brazil, acts as a gentle purgative, cures Dyspepsia, removes languor and low spirits, gives energy and capacity for work. Sold by Prentice & Evenson.

JAMES GORDON BENNETT.

WASHINGTON, May 8.—James Gordon Bennett dined with President Arthur this evening, and to-morrow will take the President and members of the cabinet on an excursion down the Potomac in his new yacht. Arrangements are making to communicate this summer with the Arctic signal-service station at Point Barrow and Lady Franklin Bay. Negotiations are pending for the charter of a suitable ship at San Francisco to take stores.

Never Too Late to Mend.

Thos. J. Arden, William street, East Buffalo, writes: "Your Spring Blossom has worked on me splendidly. I had no appetite; used to sleep badly and get up in the morning unrefreshed; my breath was very offensive and I suffered from severe headache; since using your Spring Blossom all these symptoms have vanished and I feel quite well." Price 50 cents, trial size 10 cents.

Sold by A. J. Roberts and Sherer & Co.

THE WHITE HOUSE.

WASHINGTON, May 8.—The bill recently introduced in the House, appropriating $1,000,000 for the purchase of a site and construction of a new residence for the President of the United States, will be antagonized by Senator Morrill's measure introduced to-day, which provides for the appropriation of $300,000 for the purpose of erecting an extension of the present mansion on the South of equal and like exterior to be connected by a corridor. A commission is to be appointed consisting of the President of the United States and Secretaries of the Treasury and Interior Departments, to have authority to make contracts and select the best and most suitable material for the extension.

Advertising Cheats.

It has become so common to write the beginning of an elegant, interesting article and then run it into some advertisement that we avoid all such cheats and simply call attention to the merits of Hop Bitters in as plain, honest terms as possible, to induce people to give the medicine a trial, as no one who knows their value will ever use anything else.

SILK CULTURE.

PHILADELPHIA, May 8.—The Women's Silk Culture Association of the United States has given notice of its willingness to purchase cocoons from all parts of the country.

MASON AND GUTTEAU.

WASHINGTON, May 8.—The decision in the Supreme court to-day, affirming the jurisdiction and sentence of the court martial in the Mason case, will probably postpone further efforts in his behalf, and, after Guiteau is disposed of, the executive clemency, which is the only alternative for relief, may be then successfully sought. The hearing, which was to have been held before the court in banc in the Guiteau case was postponed until to-morrow. Mr. Reed, for the criminal, has prepared a long brief in which he takes the ground that the court had not jurisdiction because the assassination was committed in New Jersey, in substantiation of which he cites a number of decisions of the courts in the District of Columbia. He also questions the validity of the sentence which was on the fourth day of February, 1882, and during the December term of 1881, whereas it should have been fixed within thirty days after the fourth Monday of October, 1882.

It acts directly upon the stomach, liver and kidneys in a remarkable manner. ZOPESA from Brazil, is only appreciated by those who have tried it. Every bottle warranted to cure Dyspepsia. Sold by Prentice & Evenson.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.

LONDON, May 8.—Every part of the House of Commons at the opening of the session was crowded this afternoon. At 4:20 o'clock Gladstone arose, and, with great emotion and a tremulous voice, moved the adjournment of the House. He said the blackness of the crime and the horror it excited throughout the entire kingdom were unparalleled. In the murder of Burke, he said, they had been robbed of one of the ablest and most upright members of the civil service; but the hand of the assassin had come nearer home, and one of the noblest hearts had ceased beating while full of hope and love for Ireland. As far as the government were concerned, all previous arrangements must be rescinded. Thursday next he (Gladstone) would ask the House to leave to introduce a measure for the repression of crime in Ireland. He believed he would be assisted from all quarters of the House. On an early day he would introduce a measure dealing with the question of arrears of rent.

Sir Stafford Northcote seconded the motion of Gladstone for an adjournment. He promised that the opposition would support the government in measures for the repression of crime. He considered the occasion too sad for more than a passing tribute of respect to the deceased. Parnell expressed the detestation of all Irishmen for the crime. He said he believed it was committed in order to frustrate his cause. He did not deny the government might be compelled to take steps to restore order in Ireland. He was of the opinion that the crime was the work of those to whom he had always been opposed. Parnell appeared in the House in deep mourning.

"How do you manage," said a lady to her friend, "to appear so happy all this time?" "I always have Parker's Ginger Tonic brandy," was the reply, "and thus keep myself and family in good health. When I am well I always feel good natured." See other column.

THE UNITARIANS.

CLEVELAND, May 8.—The afternoon session of the Western Unitarian Conference was principally devoted to the hearing of reports of the officers of the Sunday School Society.

The following were elected officers for the ensuing year: President J. V. Blake, of Quincy, Ill.; Vice President, Louis Greene, of Hyde Park; Treasurer, Myron Leonard, Hyde Park; additional directors Mrs. J. Wilkinson, Miss Florence Hilton, and Horace Badger, Chicago; G. E. Gordon, Milwaukee; F. L. Hosmer, Cleveland; Mrs. E. B. Sunderland, Ann Arbor; J. L. Jones, Chicago; and W. C. Gannett, St. Paul.

In the evening Mrs. J. Gannett Wells, of Boston, read a paper on "The Teaching of Unitarian Doctrines in the Sunday School." Mrs. C. P. Cole, of Mount Pleasant, Iowa, on "Temperance in the Sunday School." Mr. Brooke Herford, of Chicago, on "How to teach the life of Jesus in the Sunday School," and the Rev. J. V. Blake, of Quincy, Ill., on "The Bible in the Sunday School."

"Four on Oil." L. P. Follett, Marion, O., states that he has used THOMAS' ELECTRIC OIL for burns, and has found nothing to equal it in soothing the pain and giving relief. Sold by A. J. Roberts and Sherer & Co.

DIVORCE LAWS.

MILWAUKEE, May 8.—An interesting divorce suit, which will bring out some of the points in the law of this State, once in force, concerning the divorce of an insane husband and wife, is now in the courts here. Gustave Loeffler, a prominent German, was divorced from an insane wife while the law was in force, and now Mrs. Loeffler's friends have taken the matter before the courts to have the decree set aside on the ground that the wife was not incurably insane. The friends seem to have fair hopes of success, and it now transpires that Loeffler married again after getting the divorce without waiting for the six months given by law for the divorced party to appeal. The case is attracting a great deal of attention.

AH!—Dentists who have tried "TEY-BERRY" pronounce it the finest thing on the face of this earth for the teeth and breath. 5 cent samples. Sold by Prentice & Evenson.

THE "MAN-FLY."

NEW YORK, May 8.—Prof. D. J. Daretz, "man-fly, gymnast and rope-walker," was advertised to give an exhibition upon the tight-rope this afternoon at Flushing, L. I., during which he was to walk backward and forward blindfolded, tied from head to foot in a sack, and with his feet in a cheese-box. At two o'clock a large crowd had assembled. A long wire rope was extended along Bridge street from the Times office to Bowens' feed-store opposite, and fastened around under the eaves of the building. A lever which tightened the rope was held in place by being caught under the edge of the roof. After going through the simple portion of the exhibition a handkerchief was tied around his head and he proceeded to walk across blindfolded. At this point the stick slipped, the rope slackened suddenly, and he fell astride it. He rebounded and fell thirty feet to the macadamized road, striking upon his head and left shoulder and fracturing his skull. He was carried into Shaw's restaurant close by, where he raised his head twice and ejaculated, "Oh, my God!" and expired. The real name of the deceased was James Seman. He was 28 years of age, and had been engaged as a professional gymnast for about twelve years. He fell three months ago in Holister, Cal., and was so badly hurt that he lay unconscious for ten days.

The Attempted Assassination of President Jackson.

Thomas H. Benton, in his excellent book, "Thirty Years in the United States Senate," gives a detailed account of an attempt to assassinate Gen. Jackson, which was made in the year 1835: On Friday, the 30th of January, the President, with some of his Cabinet, attended the funeral exequies of Warren R. Davis, Esq., in the Hall of the House of Representatives, of which body Mr. Davis had been a member from the State of South Carolina. The procession had moved out with the body, and its front had reached the foot of the broad steps of the eastern portico, when the President, with Mr. Woodbury, Secretary of the Treasury, and Mr. Mahlon Dickerson, Secretary of the Navy, were issuing from the door of the great rotunda, which opens upon the portico. At that instant a person stepped from the crowd into the little open space in front of the President, leveled a pistol at him at a distance of about eight feet, and attempted to fire. It was a percussion lock, and the cap exploded without firing the powder in the barrel. The explosion of the cap was so loud that many persons thought the pistol had fired. I heard it at the foot of the steps, far from the place, and a great crowd between. Instantly the person dropped the pistol which had missed fire; took another which he had ready cocked in the left hand, concealed by a cloak—leveled it, and pulled the trigger. It was also a percussion lock, and the cap exploded without firing the powder in the barrel. The President instantly rushed upon him with his uplifted cane; the man shrunk back; Mr. Woodbury aimed a blow at him; Lieut. Gedney, of the navy, knocked him down; he was secured by the bystanders, who delivered him to the officers of justice for judicial examination. The examination took place before the Chief Justice of the district, Mr. Cranch, by whom he was committed in default of bail. His name was ascertained to be Richard Lawrence, an Englishman by birth, and house painter by trade, at present out of employment, melancholy and irascible. The pistols were examined, and found to be well loaded; and fired afterward without fail, carrying their bullets true, and driving them through iron boards at thirty feet distance; nor could any reason be found for the two failures at the door of the rotunda. On his examination the prisoner seemed to be at his ease, as if unconscious of having done anything wrong—refusing to cross-examine the witnesses who testified against him, or to give any explanation of his conduct. The idea of an assassin and a murderer impressing itself upon the public opinion, the Marshal of the District invited two of the most respectable physicians of the city (Dr. Cassin and Dr. Thos. Sewell) to visit him and examine into his mental condition. Lawrence was declared insane, and never brought to trial.

The Utilization of Blood, Bones, Etc.

In our city abattoirs very little of a slaughtered animal is allowed to go to waste. The hoofs are sold for glue stock, and bring about 40 cents a set. Pates, for the same purpose, bring 1 cent to 1½ cents per pound. The tallow is generally rendered at the abattoirs and brings from 6½ to 7½ cents per pound. What is called "hog fat"—that is, fat taken from the breast and kidneys of the animal while it is yet warm, is sold to oleomargarine manufacturers at 4½ cents per pound. The bladder, wizen, reed and bung are sold for about 8 cents a set, and made into skins for wrapping sausages in. The head brings 30 cents, and the meat is taken off it and canned, while the bones are used as fertilizers. The flesh tail, worth 5 cents, is made into soup, and the hair tail, which is used for making mattresses, or mixed with lime and sand for building purposes, is sold at 4 cents. Horns, which bring 10 cents per pair, are converted into bone buttons, handles for cutlery, etc. The blood is dried by steam, which separates the water from it, and then baked in a drying machine and sold for sugar refining and fertilizing purposes. Of late years it has also been manufactured into buttons by means of a chemical process. A number of consumptives come to the slaughter-houses daily and drink the warm blood from the freshly-killed animal, with very beneficial results in many cases. The stomachs are used for tripe, and bring 12½ to 15 cents each. The tongue is worth 50 cents to 60 cents, and is usually smoked. The heart and liver together bring 30 cents, and, although sometimes used for human food, are generally sold for cats' and dogs' meat.—Scientific American.
